The cheerful and enthusiastic young people of Shree Raj Educational Centre, Parli.

With joy in my heart I am writing this personal letter of mine to express how privileged I feel to be with each one of you for those four days. You gave me a feel of rural Maharashtra and speaking to you in your mother tongue, listening to your expression in your own language was a happy moment for me. I came back home with more knowledge and understanding of what young people of villages of India think and their aspirations.

The flame of Parli was alive within me and you are responsible to keep the flame alive by regularly calling me and expressing change and asking when next we will see each other. This only showed your enthusiasm to meet and re-connect once again with the idea of LMAD and with the hardworking team of volunteers who guided you on both the instances.

During our time together we learnt many new applications which will build our life and career, for me what stands out is concentration and with focus we can achieve a lot in our life and for this we need daily disciplined moments of quiet time.

I did speak many times in the morning where I expressed 20 minutes of daily quiet time. Regularly continue with discipline focusing on both the aspect of quiet time and concentration. These two factors will take you way ahead then many others who are with you.

We represent and belong to a society which in many aspects of life is deprived from many others but this aspect should not be considered as negative but I look at it as positive and this inspires me to work hard and achieve all that I want to in this one life of mine; the moment I become better as a student, constant thirst for knowledge, regularly adding skills, speaking language on which one has command and constantly be open to change in our life and surroundings. If we can embrace all these we are definitely moving ahead in becoming better. Knowledge is no one's property and proprietary one may be rich, poor, backward, religion, region, class but it belongs equally to all and it depends on each individual how much it drinks from the ocean of knowledge and this is the only ladder which you have to become successful in life and that is through knowledge and perseverance.

Your presence at Asia Plateau {AP} for 24 hours was electrifying and I could see immense happiness on the face of each one of you. Your body language was positive and I got a sense that we have started from where we had left in Parli on 18 August. Your enthusiasm for learning, sharing and following what was taught to you in both the encounters of LMAD was visible.

Preserve all that you have learnt through various processes during those four days and a day at AP, this will accelerate your progress.

Writing is an important skill and habit and I want you to write about your journey of life after meeting LMAD, In this writing you write about yourself before attending LMAD, then you attended LMAD for four days and life after LMAD. In three parts you write one is before LMAD at LMAD and after LMAD. The process of change and how you have evolved as a person. Once you finish writing, hand over your writing to Madhuri Mam and she will do the needful by passing it over to me for upload on our youth website.

Once you write I will put it on the youth website www.lmad.in and you must also visit the Face Book page www.facebook.com/iofc.lmad/ to revisit the images of your time with LMAD and all that we keep on doing regularly with the work of LMAD. This will keep you connected with the work and teachings of LMAD

I pray in my heart and think many times about each one of you that your inner conscious guides you to become better version of yourself each passing day, to live your dream to become a happy successful person.
